Hand in Hand Parenting Starter Class

This class is for parents and caregivers who want to learn to handle behavioral difficulties and emotional moments with children from 1-1/2 years through school age. Essential tools of parenting are taught in this class. Researchers have called these skills the “super-protective factor” which leads to happy, productive lives for children and positive adolescent outcomes.

Participants reflect on their current parenting and develop a Family Connection Plan, as they build personal support for the important work of parenting within their families and the community. Each class participant will be expected to use "Listening Tools" on a regular basis between classes, and experiences will be shared, creating a broad base for learning and mutual support.

Fees for Hand in Hand Parenting Starter Class for Parents:

Parent Support Groups/Skill-building Groups

These groups are for parents/caregivers who are already familiar with Hand in Hand Parenting, or are willing to read the materials as they enter the class. These support / skill-building groups offer parents mentoring and a place to build support for the very important job of parenting. Groups can be arranged at your location for six weeks at a time and may be renewed throughout the year. Available in select geographical locations.

Targeted Workshops

Hand in Hand is available to lead targeted workshops that focus on the needs of adolescents, foster parents, adoptive families, premature infants, children with special needs, teen parents, mothers with postpartum depression, divorced families, stepfamilies, and more. Contact us about how we can customize a workshop for the population you want to serve and we'll work together to meet your goals. Daylong workshops with Patty Wipfler start at $1500, half-day workshops are available locally from $750. Available in select geographical locations.

Consultations

Many parents, in addition to reading and trying the ideas about listening to children outlined in our classes and pamphlets, find that a little one-on-one time to talk with a trained Hand in Hand Parenting Consultant about their unique family situation is a great boost to their ability to use our approach. Hand in Hand offers parent-to-parent consulting services by phone (and/or in-person in select geographic areas).

Hand in Hand consultants are Certified Instructors chosen for their substantial experience using the Hand in Hand Parenting approach.
